PART II—Section 2

Bills and Reports of Select Committees on Bills

PARLIAMENT OF INDIA

The following Bills were introduced in Parliament on the 9th August, 1950.—

BILL No. 50 of 1950

A Bill to amend the Census Act, 1948

Enacted by Parliament as follows:—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Census (Amendment) Act, 1950

2. Amendment of section 1, Act XXXVII of 1948.—In sub-section (2) of section 1 of the Census Act, 1948 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), for the words "except the States of Hyderabad, Jammu and Kashmir, Mysore and Travancore-Cochin", the words "except the State of Jammu and Kashmir" shall be substituted

3. Insertion of new section 2 in Act XXXVII of 1948.—After section 1 of the said Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"2 Rule of construction respecting enactments not extending to Part B States.—Any reference to the Indian Penal Code (Act XLV of 1860) or the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (I of 1872), shall, in relation to a Part B State, be construed as a reference to the corresponding enactment in force in that State."

4. Amendment of section 14, Act XXXVII of 1948.—In section 14 of the said Act, after the words "Magistrate of the second class", the words "or in a Part B State, a Magistrate corresponding to a Magistrate of the second class" shall be inserted

5. Repeal and savings.—(1) If immediately before the commencement of this Act there is in force in the States of Hyderabad and Mysore any law which corresponds to the said Act, it is hereby repealed.

(2) Notwithstanding such repeal, anything done or any action taken in the exercise of any power conferred by or under the repealed law shall be deemed to have been done or taken in the exercise of the powers conferred by or under the said Act, as if the said Act were in force on the day on which such thing was done or action was taken.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Census Act, 1948, does not extend to the States of Travancore-Cochin, Hyderabad, Mysore and Jammu and Kashmir. The States of Hyderabad and Mysore have local Census Acts of their own but not the State of Travancore-Cochin. In the absence of any such law it has become necessary to extend the Census Act, 1948, to that State. The Bill seeks to achieve this object. In the interests of uniformity, a provision has also been made to extend the Act to the States of Hyderabad and Mysore and for the repeal of the local Acts in force in those States. The result will be that there will be an uniform Census law throughout the country. The State of Jammu and Kashmir has been excluded from the operation of the Act as Parliament has no power to make a law for that State in respect of census. Moreover it is not proposed to hold a census in that State next year.

BILL No. 57 OF 1950

A Bill to amend the Salaries of Ministers Act, 1947

BE it enacted by Parliament as follows:—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Salaries of Ministers (Amendment) Act, 1950.

2. Amendment of section 2, Act LIII of 1947.—In section 2 of the Salaries of Ministers Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), clause (a) shall be omitted.

3. Substitution of new section for section 3, Act LIII of 1947.—For section 3 of the said Act, the following section shall be substituted, namely:—

“3. Salaries and allowances of Ministers.—There shall be paid to each Cabinet Minister a salary of three thousand rupees per mensem and a sumptuary allowance of five hundred rupees per mensem, to each Minister of State a salary of three thousand rupees per mensem, and to each Deputy Minister a salary of two thousand rupees per mensem.”

4. Amendment of section 4, Act LIII of 1947.—In sub-section (1) of section 4 of the said Act, for the words “Each Minister”, the words “Each Cabinet Minister” shall be substituted.

5. Repeal of Ordinance XX of 1950.—The Salaries of Ministers (Amendment) Ordinance, 1950 (XX of 1950), is hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Salaries of Ministers Act, 1947, as adapted on the 28th January, 1950, provided only for the salaries, allowances and privileges of Cabinet Ministers. With the reconstitution of the Council of Ministers by the President on the 5th May, 1950, it became urgently necessary to amend the Act for fixing the salaries of Ministers of State and Deputy Ministers which, until then, were regulated by executive orders. Accordingly, the Salaries of Ministers (Amendment) Ordinance, 1950 (XX of 1950) was promulgated by the President on the 29th June, 1950.

This Bill seeks to give permanence to the amendments made by the Ordinance. Under the provisions of the Bill, Ministers of State as well as Deputy Ministers will continue to get the same salaries as before.

CHAPTER IV

PRINCIPLES FOR DETERMINATION OF FAIR WAGES

28. Principles of determination of fair rates of wages.—(1) Where any reference is made under section 14 to the Board or a Regional Board for fixing fair rates of wages in respect of employees in any class of establishments, the Board or Regional Board, as the case may be, shall ascertain the minimum rates of wages payable to such employees and the minimum rates so ascertained shall ensure such wages to an employee as may enable him to provide a standard family with food, shelter and clothing and also medical expenses and education of children appropriate to his station in life.

(2) In determining the fair rates of wages in respect of such employees, the Board or a Regional Board, as the case may be, shall consider all the circumstances of the case and, in particular, shall take the following factors into account, namely:—

(a) the minimum rates of wages payable to such employees;

(b) productivity of such employees;

(c) the prevailing rates of wages for performing similar work in any other class or classes of establishments in the local area;

(d) the competitive position in the international market of the class of establishments to which the proceedings relate;

(e) the wage-paying capacity of such class of establishments:

Provided that the fair rates of wages for such employees shall not be less than the minimum rates of wages payable to them, and, subject thereto, shall not exceed the wage-paying capacity of such class of establishments

Provided further that where the Board or a Regional Board, as the case may be, is of opinion that the fair rates of wages determined under this section exceed the wage-paying capacity of an establishment for any special reasons not connected with the mismanagement thereof, the Board or the Regional Board, as the case may be, may fix lower rates of wages for employees employed in that establishment.

(3) For the purpose of determining the wage-paying capacity of a class of establishments, the Board or a Regional Board, as the case may be, shall take into consideration the capacity of all such establishments which, in the opinion of that Board or Regional Board fairly represent that class of establishments in the local area

(4) In determining the wage-paying capacity under sub-section (3), the Board or a Regional Board, as the case may be, shall ensure that production of the class of establishments to which the proceedings relate is maintained with efficiency and due allowance is made for a fair return on capital, remuneration to management, and a fair allocation to reserves and depreciation funds so as to keep that class of establishments in an economically sound condition.

(5) A fair rate of wages for any class of employees shall be related to a fair load of work which that class of employees is expected to do, and if an employee belonging to that class does not turn out a fair load of work, the wages payable to that employee shall bear the same proportion to the fair rate of wages as the work done by him bears to the fair load of work, and in order to determine the productivity of employees and whether a fair load of work is being turned out by an employee, the Board or a Regional Board, as the case may be, may institute time and motion studies in such manner as may be prescribed.

29. Components of fair rates of wages.—Any fair rate of wages fixed under this Act may consist of a basic rate of wages and a cost of living allowance at a rate to be adjusted at such intervals and in such manner as the appropriate Government may direct, to accord as nearly as practicable with the variation in the cost of living index number.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section “cost of living allowance” means a special allowance given to an employee for the purpose of compensating him for an increase in the cost of living

30. Basic rate of fair wages.—(1) Where any reference is made under section 14 to the Board or a Regional Board for fixing fair rates of wages in respect of employees of any class of establishments, such Board or Regional Board as the case may be, may classify the employees into such classes as they may deem fit and proceed to determine the basic rate of fair wages for each such class of employees in accordance with the principles laid down in section 28

(2) The basic rate of fair wages for any class of employees shall be so fixed that the same rate, except as provided in the second proviso to sub-section (2) of section 28, may be made applicable to all the establishments of the same class in the local area.

(3) The basic rate of fair wages shall be fixed with reference to a cost of living index number of 185 to 200 treating the cost of living index number of 1939 as 100.

Provided that where the Central Government, in consultation with the State Governments, ascertains and declares the index number applicable to any class of employees, the basic rate of fair wages for such employees shall be fixed with reference to such cost of living index number.

31. Cost of living allowance.—The cost of living allowance, which is to be paid in addition to the basic rate of wages, shall be computed in such manner and on such graduated scales as the appropriate Government may from time to time direct:

Provided that in the case of employees whose basic rate of wages does not exceed thirty-five rupees per month, the rate of cost of living allowance shall be so computed as to compensate such employees to the extent of one hundred per cent for the increase in the cost of living

32 Statutory and non-statutory benefits.—In determining fair rates of wages for any class of employees, the Board or a Regional Board, as the case may be, may make due allowance for any benefit, statutory or otherwise, which goes to reduce the expenses of such employees on items of expenditure which may be taken into account in the calculation of fair rates of wages for such class of employees.

33. Different rates for time-work, piece-work and over-time work.—The Board or a Regional Board may fix,—

(a) a fair rate of wages for time-work (hereinafter referred to as time-rate),

(b) a fair rate of wages for piece-work (hereinafter referred to as piece-rate);

(c) a fair rate of wages to apply in respect of over-time work done by employees (hereinafter referred to as over-time rate).

Provided that where any over-time rate has been fixed under any law applicable to any class of employees, the fair rates of wages in respect of over-time work for such employees shall be fixed in accordance therewith

34. Different rates for different classes of establishments, etc.—In fixing fair rates of wages under this Act, different fair rates of wages may be fixed for,—

(a) different classes of establishments,

(b) different classes of employees in the same establishment,

(c) different local areas,

(d) different wage periods

Provided that where any wage periods have been fixed under section 4 of the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 (IV of 1936), fair rates of wages shall be fixed in accordance therewith

35. Different rates of wages for different classes of employees.—In fixing different rates of wages for different classes of employees, the Board or a Regional Board, as the case may be, may take the following factors into consideration, namely:—

(a) the degree of skill required for doing the work,

(b) the strain and the fatigue involved in doing the work,

(c) the training and experience required for doing the work

(d) the responsibility to be undertaken;

(e) the mental and physical requirements for doing the work

(f) the disagreeableness of the task

(g) the hazard attendant on the work

36. Wages for men and women.—Men and women shall receive equal pay for employment, on piece-rates or for equal work done

Provided that where women are employed in work done exclusively by them or where the women are less efficient than men, such women may be paid wages at a rate lower than that of men and in such a case, the standard family shall be deemed to consist of such number of adult consumption units, not exceeding three, as the Board may, subject to any directions of the Appellate Tribunal in this behalf, deem fit.

37. Overtime.—Where an employee whose time-rate is fixed under this Act, works on any day for a period in excess of the number of hours constituting a normal working day, the employee shall be paid such overtime rate for the excess work done as may be fixed in this behalf.

38. Wages of employees who work for less than normal working day.—Where an employer neglects or fails to provide an employee with full work for a normal working day, the employee shall be entitled to receive wages in respect of the work done by him as if he had worked for a full normal working day.

39. Revision of fair rates of wages fixed under this Act.—Where the appropriate Government is of opinion that since the award fixing fair rates of wages was made, there has been a material change in the circumstances on which the award was based, the appropriate Government may refer the award or a part of it to the Board or a Regional Board, for revision of the rates of wages, and such Board or Regional Board, as the case may be, shall submit a fresh award making such changes, if any, in the original award as it deems fit and the provisions of this Act shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to a reference made under this section as they apply in relation to a reference made under section 14.

CHAPTER V

APPEALS, ENFORCEMENT OF AWARDS AND PENALTIES

40. Appeal.—(1) Any party aggrieved by an award of the Board or a Regional Board may, within thirty days from the date on which such award becomes enforceable under section 17, prefer an appeal to the Appellate Tribunal:

Provided that the appropriate Government or the Central Government, where it is not the appropriate Government may, whether or not such Government is a party to the award, prefer such appeal to the Appellate Tribunal.

Provided further that the Appellate Tribunal may entertain the appeal after the expiry of the said period of thirty days if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from filing the appeal in time.

(2) Where an appeal is preferred under sub-section (1), the Appellate Tribunal shall determine the appeal as if it were an appeal preferred against the award of a Labour Tribunal under the Labour Relations Act, 1950 and the provisions of the said Act shall apply accordingly and the Appellate Tribunal shall have and exercise, in accordance with the same procedure, the same jurisdiction, power and authority, over all Boards and Regional Boards as the Appellate Tribunal has and exercises over all Labour Tribunals under the Labour Relations Act, 1950.

41. Payment of fair wages by employers.—(1) Where in respect of any class of employees, a fair rate of wages has been fixed under this Act, the employer shall pay to every employee of such class wages at a rate not less than the rate of wages so fixed.

(2) Nothing contained in this section shall affect the provisions of the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 (IV of 1936).

42. Maintenance of registers and records.—(1) Every employer of the establishment to which this Act applies shall, in such form and manner as may be prescribed, maintain such registers, records or notices, showing the employees employed by him, the work performed by them, the wages paid to them, the receipts given by them and such other particulars as may be prescribed.

(2) The appropriate Government may, by rules made under this Act, provide for the issue of wage books or wage slips to employees employed in any establishment to which this Act applies and prescribe the manner in which entries shall be made and authenticated in such wage books or wage slips by the employer or his agent.

43. Inspectors.—(1) The appropriate Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint a Chief Inspector and as many Inspectors as may be necessary for the purpose of inspecting the establishments to which this Act applies and may define the local limits within which an Inspector shall exercise his functions.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Industrial Truce Resolution of 1947 laid down that in devising a system of remuneration to capital as well as labour, adequate provision must be made, inter alia, for payment of fair wages to labour. Government accepted that Resolution in their Statement on Industrial Policy dated the 6th April 1948 and announced their intention to set up suitable machinery for its implementation. Accordingly, a Central Advisory Council was established, consisting of representatives of Central and Provincial Governments, of employers and of employees to examine the various problems arising out of the Industrial Truce Resolution. That Council was assisted in its study of the subject of fair wages by a tripartite committee which submitted a unanimous report.

2 The Fair Wages Bill which has been drafted on the basis of the report of the Committee on Fair Wages is the first step in the realisation of labour's dreams of a living wage which has been vouchsafed to it by the Constitution. The ultimate expectations have, however, to be tempered with immediate possibilities and hence the emphasis that the Bill places on the limit to fair wages being set by the capacity of industry to pay. It has, however, equally clearly been laid down that an employer to whom the provisions of the Bill apply shall in no circumstances pay his employees a wage less than the minimum wage described therein, irrespective of the capacity of the industry or the unit. The fair wage contemplated in the Bill will, so long as the cost of living index number exceeds a slab of 185 to 200 (the cost of living index number of 1939 being taken as 100), consist of a basic rate and a cost of living allowance, the latter to be adjusted according to such graduated scales as may, from time to time, be prescribed by the appropriate Government. There are also provisions in the Bill relating to the fixation of wage differentials, the calculation of over-time, the principle of equal pay for equal work and the revision of fair rates of wages from time to time.

3. It must, however, be mentioned that the principles for the determination of fair wages mentioned in Chapter IV of the Bill are, by the very nature of the concepts therein embodied, not always susceptible of exact or meticulous definition and are, therefore, more in the nature of directive and suggestive principles to be borne in mind by the wage-fixing machinery than as exact definitions complete in themselves and capable of immediate translation into final decisions. And yet, Government feel that it is an advantage to include them in the legislation both as an indication of the lines on which the various wage-fixing bodies should approach this vital and complex problem and as a guide which will facilitate co-ordination and the maintenance of uniform standards throughout the country.

4. The machinery contemplated for the fixation of fair wages is largely on familiar lines—tripartite Wages Boards co-ordinated by an all India Appellate Body. The technical aspects of the working of Wages Boards, for example, publication, commencement and period of operation of awards and similar matters, are on the lines provided for in the Labour Relations Bill. The Act applies in the first instance to factories and mines, but is capable of extension by notification to other classes of establishments where a manufacturing or mining process is carried on.

5 The Fair Wages Bill, in its present form, is undoubtedly a novel experiment in the field of wage regulation, for it is not often that enactments of this kind provide for anything more than a bare machinery for fixation of wages. If then, Government have tried to include in the Bill something more than is usual or conventional, it is because they have tried to give expression, inadequately perhaps, to the hopes and aspirations of a class of wage-earners who occupy a strategic position in the economy of the country.

JAGJIVAN RAM

FAIR WAGES BILL, 1950FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The Fair Wages Bill contemplates the setting up of the following bodies:—

- (1) Wages Boards, and
- (2) Regional Wages Boards.

2. The Wages Boards to be set up under clause 4 of the Bill, will consist of two members to represent the interests of employers, two to represent the interests of employees and a Chairman to be appointed by the "appropriate Government" from among the Chairmen of the Labour Tribunals. Clause 7 of the Bill provides for the constitution of Regional Wages Boards for any local area. Each Regional Board will consist of two members to represent the interests of employers, two to represent the interests of employees and a Chairman to be appointed by the "appropriate Government" who shall be an independent person not connected with either employers or employees' interests. The Wages Board is primarily a co-ordinating authority and may be expected to meet say four or six times a year for a few days each time.

3. So far as the Central Government is concerned, it is proposed to set up a Wages Board and it may be necessary to constitute four Regional Wages Boards for establishments in the "Central Sphere". The work of the Chairman of the Central Board will initially be entrusted to one of the Chairmen of the Central Government's Standing Industrial Tribunals at Calcutta or Dhanbad. It is not proposed to allow any extra remuneration to the Chairman of the Tribunal appointed for this work. Provision has, however, been made in the estimates for the appointment of a whole-time Chairman on a pay of Rs. 2,000 p. m. The other four members of the Board may be paid a fee of Rs. 40/- each for each sitting of the Board, in addition to travelling and daily allowances as for a Central Government Officer of the first grade. On the assumption that there will be 30 sittings in one year, the expenditure on account of pay of Chairman, fees, etc., to members will be as follows:—

	Per Year. Rs.
Chairman	24,000
Fees to Members (for 30 days)	4,800
Travelling Allowance and Daily Allowance.	11,250
Total	40,050

4. For the work relating to the Wages Board, the following staff will be required in addition to the existing staff of the Tribunal at Dhanbad or Calcutta which cost about Rs. 14,000 per annum:—

One Research Officer (Rs. 350—25—500—EB—30—650—EB—30—800)	}	Rs. 14,500 (including allowances.)
One Upper Division Clerk (Rs. 80—5—120—EB—8—200—10/2—220)
Two Lower Division Clerks (one will be a stenotypist getting an additional allowance of Rs. 20/-p.m.) (Rs. 55—3—85—EB—4—125—5—130)
Two Peons

5. Provision will also be necessary for payment of fees to persons temporarily associated with the Board under clause 21 of the Bill and to assessors under clause 20 at the same rate as for Members of the Board. Their fees and other contingent expenditure connected with the functioning of the Board may be roughly estimated at Rs. 13,000/- per annum.

6. The total annual expenditure of the Wages Board may therefore be estimated at Rs. 81,550.

7. For Regional Wages Boards also it will be necessary to have a whole-time Chairman and to pay the four Members fee at the same rate (Rs. 40 a day) as for the Members of the Central Wages Board. The expenditure on this account, on the presumption that each Regional Board will have 15 sittings in a year, will come to,—

	Rs.
Pay of Chairman . . .	18,000
Fees to the Members . .	2,400
Travelling allowance for the Members.	11,250

The expenditure on staff for each Regional Board for a period of one year will be as follows:—

Staff for one Regional Board—

One Research Officer (Rs. 350—800)	} Rs. 16,000 (including allowances).
One Stenographer (Rs. 80—220)
One Upper Division Clerk (Rs. 80—220)
Two Lower Division Clerks (Rs. 55—130)
Three Peons

Expenditure on other items as detailed in para. 5 above may be estimated at about Rs. 9,000 per annum.

The total expenditure for one Regional Board will thus be Rs. 56,650 per annum and for four such Boards Rs. 2,26,600.

8. Clause 43 of the Bill provides for the appointment of a Chief Inspector and Inspectors for the purpose of inspecting establishments to see whether the provisions of this Bill are properly observed. It is the intention to entrust this work to the officers of the Central Industrial Relations Machinery and so no additional expenditure on this account is anticipated immediately. But a sum of Rs. 20,000 has been included in the estimate in case whole-time staff is found necessary.

9. The total annual recurring expenditure to be incurred by the Central Government as a result of the Fair Wages Bill will be about Rs. 8.3 lakhs. The attached statement gives an abstract of the expenditure.

10. In addition to the expenditure mentioned above State Governments will incur expenditure on Wages Boards and Regional Wages Boards on the lines mentioned above. While each State will have only one Wages Board, the number of Regional Wages Boards to be set up will vary from State to State depending on the number and types of factories and mines to be covered. It is, therefore, difficult to estimate the expenditure to be borne by the States. Assuming, however, that each State will be meeting expenditure more or less to the same extent as the Central Government, the total expenditure for all State Governments may be estimated at about Rs. 50 lakhs taking into account the fact that the scales of pay in States are generally lower than those at the Centre. The total expenditure, Central and State, will amount to Rs. 53 lakhs. Substantial reduction in this expenditure is, however, possible by (i) utilising the existing industrial tribunals in the country; and (ii) by securing the services of members of the Boards without payment of fees.

The following Bills were introduced in Parliament on the 11th August, 1950:—

BILL NO. 59 OF 1950.

A Bill to amend the Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949.

BE it enacted by Parliament as follows:—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Influx from Pakistan (Control) Amendment Act, 1950.

2. Amendment of section 1, Act XXIII of 1949.—In sub-section (2) of section 1 of the Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), the words “except the State of Hyderabad” shall be omitted.

3. Amendment of section 2, Act XXIII of 1949.—Clause (d) of section 2 of the said Act shall be omitted.

4. Insertion of new section 5A in Act XXIII of 1949.—After section 5 of the said Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

“5A. Place of trial of offences.—An offence punishable under this Act may be tried by a court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the offence was committed or the accused person may be found.”

5. Repeal of Ordinance XXII of 1950.—(1) The Influx from Pakistan (Control) Amendment Ordinance, 1950 (XXII of 1950) is hereby repealed.

(2) Notwithstanding such repeal, anything done or any action taken in the exercise of any power conferred by or under the said Ordinance shall be deemed to have been done or taken in the exercise of the powers conferred by or under this Act, as if this Act were in force on the day on which such thing was done or action was taken.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Influx from Pakistan (Control) Act, 1949, extends to the whole of India, except the State of Hyderabad. As there is no parallel legislation in Hyderabad, State authorities were experiencing great difficulties in dealing with persons, who infiltrated into the State without permits or having entered lawfully, contravened the provisions of any of the rules framed under the Act. It became, therefore, necessary to extend the Act to Hyderabad. The Influx from Pakistan (Control) Amendment Ordinance, 1950, was promulgated on the 24th July, 1950 to achieve this object. The present Bill seeks to replace the Ordinance by an Act of Parliament.

Under the Act offences could be tried only by courts within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the offence was committed. This has created great difficulties. The present Bill seeks to remove the difficulty by making a provision that the offences punishable under the Act may be tried not only at the place where the offence was committed but also at the place where the accused person may be found.

NEW DELHI,

BILL NO. 60 OF 1950

A Bill to amend the Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act, 1950.

BE it enacted by Parliament as follows:—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records (Amendment) Act, 1950.

2. Amendment of section 203, Act XLII of 1950.—In sub-section (2) of section 203 of the Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), after clause (r), the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

“(s) for the levy of a fee in respect of any application or the grant of any relief under this Act in cases not specifically provided for”.

3. Amendment of section 204, Act XLII of 1950.—In sub-section (1) of section 204 of the said Act, for the words “three months”, the words “six months” shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Section 204 of the Ajmer Tenancy and Land Records Act, 1950, which came into force on the 10th May, 1950, required that if a tenant was ejected from his holding between the 1st day of June, 1942, and the 10th day of May, 1950, otherwise than in accordance with the Ajmer Land and Revenue Regulation, 1877, he may apply for reinstatement within three months of the latter date stating the particulars required under that section and also such other particulars as may be prescribed by rules. No rules have so far been made and the limitation prescribed under section 204 expires on the 10th of August, 1950. Although it was open to any ejected tenant to have made his application under that section without having waited for the rules, no such application has so far been made probably due to a misapprehension that it would not be entertained in the absence of any rules on the subject. As the rules are of a complex nature, the Chief Commissioner has taken some time in finalizing them and they are now ready for publication. It is, however, felt that in the circumstances of the case the benefit of this section should be made available to bona fide tenants for a further period of three months.

Advantage is taken of this opportunity to amend section 203 of the said Act for the purpose of enabling a fee to be levied in suitable cases. It is found that, in respect of such an important proceeding as mutation, no fee can be levied at the present moment, and the amendment of the Act will enable this to be done.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

As a result of the Korean war there has been a sudden rise in the prices of foodstuffs. Similarly, on account of drought in certain parts of Madras last year, a comparative failure of gram crop in the last spring in North India and floods in Bihar on account of the heavy rains in the last month, there is a growing tendency among all sections of the people to hoard foodgrains. It is therefore necessary to take measures to stop this tendency to hoard which creates unnecessary panic. Unless hoarded quantities are made available to the Government, it will be difficult to maintain equitable distribution of our limited resources of foodgrains. The Bill, therefore, provides for more drastic punishment in the case of persons who are guilty of excessive hoarding of foodgrains. Provision has also been made for the expeditious disposal of cases of hoarding.

2. When the original Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act was passed it was made applicable to British India. The Act, is, therefore, not applicable today to the States mentioned in Part B of the Constitution. It is necessary to have a uniform law on the subject of Essential Supplies for all parts of the Indian Union.

BILL No. 63 OF 1950

A Bill further to amend the Delhi Premises (Requisition and Eviction) Act, 1947.

BE IT enacted by Parliament as follows:—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Delhi Premises (Requisition and Eviction) Amendment Act, 1950.

2. Insertion of new section 10A in Act XLIX of 1947.—After section 10 of the Delhi Premises (Requisition and Eviction) Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

(2) Where any person is in unauthorised occupation of any Government premises, the competent authority may, in the prescribed manner, assess such damages on account of the use and occupation of the Government premises as he thinks fit and may, by notice served by post or in such other manner as may be prescribed by rules made in this behalf, order that person to pay the damages within such time as may be specified in the notice.

(3) If any person refuses or fails to pay the damages within the time specified in the notice under sub-section (2), the damages may be recovered as if they were arrears of land revenue."

3. Amendment of section 11, Act XLIX of 1947.—In section 11 of the said Act,—

(1) in the Explanation to sub-section (1), for the words 'In this sub-section "Government premises" means any premises', the words 'In this section and in section 10A "Government premises" means any premises or land' shall be substituted;

(2) in sub-sections (1A) and (3), for the word "premises", the words "Government premises" shall be substituted.

4. Amendment of section 12, Act XLIX of 1947.—In sub-section (2) of section 12 of the said Act, after clause (d), the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

"(dd) the manner in which damages for unauthorised occupation may be assessed and the matters which may be taken into account in assessing such damages;"

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

There are over 5,000 cases of encroachments on valuable vacant Government land in Delhi in the shape of unauthorised constructions of mud, bamboo huts and in some cases of pucca buildings. In 2,500 of these cases, the execution of sanctioned public works are held up because of these encroachments. The usual proceedings for eviction through civil courts are expensive, dilatory and often infructuous. Under the Delhi Premises (Requisition and Eviction) Act, 1947, Government have no power to evict unauthorised occupants of vacant Government land. It is, therefore, proposed in this Bill to amend the said Act, so as to provide for the eviction of unauthorised occupants of vacant Government land.

The Government of India have constructed a large number of houses in Delhi and leased them to displaced persons who have been defaulting in the payment of rent, with the result that a sum of Rs. 5 lakhs is accumulating every year by way of arrears. Great difficulty is also being experienced in realising damages from unauthorised occupants of Government premises, almost all of whom are in a position to pay, in spite of concessional assessment and rebates granted to them by Government. Nearly Rs. 10 lakhs have now accumulated by way of arrears of damages in respect of houses unauthorisedly occupied both by displaced persons and others. Government have no doubt powers under the Delhi Premises (Requisition and Eviction) Act, 1947, to evict defaulters, but it is not considered expedient to take such drastic action which, incidentally, will not facilitate the recovery of arrears. It is, therefore, proposed in this Bill to empower Government to recover arrears of rent and damages by the same summary procedure as is available in the case of recovery of arrears of land revenue.
